Supplement banned

Scribe censored

The Years supplement to The Scribe, scheduled to come out today, has been postponed due to administrative restraint.

Our printers were instructed not to print any Scribes containing more than 8 pages, without the advisor's O.K.—a decision we weren't informed about. This paper is 8 pages. The supplement would have made it 12 pages.

Never before can we remember persons outside the Scribe advertising editorial board dictating how large our newspaper should be. We have been planning this supplement all semester. We were informed about the decision not to print it about noon Wednesday when our printer called to tell us about it "so you wouldn't be surprised when you got down here this afternoon."

This action, to us, constitutes control of a student newspaper. If this type of action can be taken with a very innocent subject, one that puts the University in a nice light, then it can be done with something controversial.

So, when people complain nothing different is done in the paper—now you know why. But also remember—we intend to fight.

Billiard funds sought

By LENNON HITE

Director of Residence Halls Bryon Waterman said he will attempt to get money for those residence halls that ordered repairs to pool tables thinking it would come under dorm improvement money.

Waterman had said previously the money could not be used for that purpose.

"We are looking into ways to pay for the refurbishings some dorms have ordered but don't have the money to fund," Waterman said.

"It is obvious from some of the items requested that some dorms would rather have a pool table than a good table or chair," Waterman said.

In defending his position in reference to the listings for the $20,000 allocation Waterman said the guidelines were issued by Constantine Chagares, dean of students.

Chagares said the money was to be used for buying drapes and carpeting, not pool tables.

Chagares said if this money is spent properly then next year the residence halls might get more improvement funds.

"This money is part of a move to make the dorms a better place in which to live," Chagares said.

"I am not saying the dorms are a bad place to live," Chagares said. "But they all could stand improvements."

According to Chagares the $20,000 was allocated to the residence halls late last semester. He said the Residence Hall Association and the hall governments agreed to table the decision until this year.

Scribe investigation

Allen criticizes Iranian stories

The Scribe's continuing investigation of Iranian spies on campus has been labeled a "witch-hunt" by Presidential Assistant Bill Allen.

"Witch-hunts have a way of backfiring," Allen said. "We've got to have concrete evidence to go on," he said, referring to recent Scribe articles that revealed the alleged presence of an Iranian spy watching Iranian students here.

The investigation disclosed the alleged spy, whose name is being withheld, was operating illegally. He has since disappeared from the University.

Referring to the disclosure of the alleged spy's operations here, Allen said "I don't think you can ever prevent something like that."

Allen discounted speculation by persons close to the "spy" investigation that the University had cooperated with alleged Iranian government-sponsored efforts to monitor the actions of Iranian students here. "I know nothing of that," Allen said.

"No one is saying we are aiding any governments," he said. But, did say the University at one time was to "set up an academic contract with a health sciences school in Iran."

The project called for a "very minimal" amount of University money, Allen said. He said he did not know exactly how much would have been involved.

Kelly resigns

By MICHAEL HABER

The University Security Office's new criminal investigator resigned last week partly because he "had no authority at all" on the security force here.

Michael Kelly, the criminal investigator hired by the University two months ago said Allan MacNutt, the Director of Security, consistently refused to delegate responsibility.

"I was here two weeks before I found out they ... put no thought into setting up my job," Kelly said.

Kelly, who taught criminal justice at the University of New Haven and ran that school's internship program in criminal justice prior to accepting the position with the University, said working here "is a cushy job."

Kelly is now working in the Danbury Police Department, but said his new position represents a substantial decrease in salary. Kelly, who was earning what would amount to $12,500 a year here, said: "For the amount of work I was doing (for the U.B. security force), I was overpaid."

"I don't see why I should have stayed," he said. "The work I was doing, the supervisors were doing anyway."

Kelly resigned last week, giving MacNutt only one day's notice. He said he told MacNutt he was leaving for "personal reasons."

"You can only do so much overlooking and then you get fed up," Kelly said of his resignation.

"We'd get used to him, he'd get used to us," commented MacNutt, who added he was "shocked," by Kelly's resignation.

MacNutt told a story about a recent fire drill at one of the residence halls: "The dispatcher said it was too close to (his) quitting time" to respond to. Kelly said he gave a memo to MacNutt, who gave it to the dispatcher, who failed to respond to the fire drill. The dispatcher was supposed to reply in writing, but ignored the memo, according to Kelly.

MacNutt said the officer did respond to the memo, but that Kelly did not arrive on time on a few occasions, and apparently this was the case on the day the officer responded to the memo.

Despite his complaints about Security here, Kelly conceded that "This is one of the best campus security systems there is."

"Compared to other Universities, it's excellent," he said.

Kelly said that during official change of shifts, the officers are generally "in the office reading memos", meaning that there is about a 15-minute period during each eight hours when there are no security officers out on the streets.

He also noted that at least two officers here didn't qualify at a recent demonstration of their abilities in using guns.

MacNutt said Kelly "did a good job...but he had some growling to do yet."

He refused to comment for the record on any of Kelly's claims, and refused to listen to most of them.

Years

For the past month the Scribe staff has been working on a special four page supplement about the history of the University of Bridgeport.

The supplement, called Years, explored the beginnings of many campus institutions, including articles on former students, P.T. Barnum, residence hall and campus regulations, the formation of Student Council, sports, and publications.

However, Years has been stopped short of publication due to an administrative order still unclear to the Scribe editors and staff.

We hope we will still be able to bring this publication to you soon despite the administration's decision.

THE DEAN OF BEER'S FINAL EXAM.

(Or, was yeast really responsible for the fall of the Roman Empire?)

As your Dean of Beer, it is my scholarly opinion that just knowing the one word for beer is not enough. You must also know the reasons why. Because only then will I, Siglinda Steinfüller, be satisfied that you have graduated from Remedial Beer Drinking.

QUESTIONS:

Q: 1. The best water for beer comes from:

- a) Big Duck Mountain.
- b) Underground from Tijuana.
- c) A small store in Macon, Ga.
- d) None of the above

A: (d) No matter what you hear about "naturally pure" waters, virtually all brewers filter and further purify their water. But Schlitz doesn't stop there. They filter their water and then filter it again. So when they're through, it's purer than the purest springwater.

Q: 2. Klages and Firlbeck III are:

- a) Composers of famous beer drinking songs like "I Left My Shoes in Heidelberg."
- b) Owners of the world's largest unknown brewery.
- c) Serving time in Sonoma, Calif., for impersonating Arnold the Wonder Seal.
- d) More expensive barleys.

A: (d) Schlitz blends Klages and Firlbeck III barleys with the standard variety most brewers use because they believe it gives their beer superior flavor.

Q: 3. Hops are notorious for:

- a) Their lack of intelligence.
- b) Always getting to work late.
- c) Losing their keys.
- d) Being difficult to keep fresh.

A: (d) The freshest hops make the best beer. That's why Schlitz vacuum-packs and refrigerates their hops. So they're as fresh at brewing time as they are at harvest time.

Q: 4. The best adjunct to beer is:

- a) Rice.
- b) Corn.
- c) Either rice or corn.
- d) What's an adjunct?

A: (c) Every American brewer uses rice or corn to lighten the flavor of their beer. This is called an adjunct. But Schlitz knows how to use either grain interchangeably. So they're never at the mercy of an unfavorable crop. And neither is the taste of their beer.

Q: 5. The biggest misconception about yeast is:

- a) Carrying some in your pocket is good luck.
- b) It is good for hernias.
- c) It was responsible for the fall of the Roman Empire.
- d) To ferment beer, all you have to do is drop it in the vat.

A: (d) To make beer taste right consistently, Schlitz believes the yeast has to be evenly distributed during fermentation. That's why Schlitz gently stirs in their yeast. It's part of their Balanced Fermentation process. And they're the only American brewer who does it.

Q: 6. Chill-Lagering is:

- a) A popular German country and western singer.
- b) A Scandinavian winter sport played without clothes.
- c) A new ethnic TV comedy about the owner of an ice cube factory.
- d) The right way to age beer.

A: (d) When Schlitz ages beer, they age it cold—very cold—down to 29.5 degrees. It's called Chill-Lagering. And it's what makes Schlitz crisp, clean and bright.

Q: 7. A mini-brewery is:

- a) Hidden in a basement somewhere in Greektown.
- b) The result of trying to make Broken Toe, Idaho, the beer capital of the world.
- c) The right way to pretest beer ingredients.
- d) Both (a) and (c)

A: (c) Schlitz has a mini-brewery where they test-brew the quality of the ingredients that go into Schlitz—before they go into Schlitz.

SPECIAL BONUS QUESTION:

Q: True or false, the one word for beer is Duffelbrau.

A: False. There is no beer called Duffelbrau. Just as there is no beer like Schlitz. If you answered this question true, perhaps you should look into turkey ranching.

BOD survey to determine family interest

By KATHY KATELLA
The Student Center Board of Directors (BOD) Monday voted to take a student survey to determine the interest on campus for a Little Brothers and Sisters Weekend.

The Weekend, voted down 9-17 by BOD at a previous meeting would be held Dec. 2 to 4 for interested high-school age brothers and sisters. BOD voted against the proposal because the Parents Association did not allocate funds for it.

According to BOD External Vice-President and Special events committee co-chairperson, Barbara Roos, the events would cost $800. Roos said she has half the money and plans to seek a BOD allocation for the remainder. She said Residence Hall Association President Ruth Corbett is checking into liabilities.

Roos said a hopeful 80 little brothers and sisters who would stay in the residence halls and eat in Marina will be able to participate in the events.

Roos said the weekend will include a pizza party and the play, "House of Blue Leaves," Friday, with open recreation in the gym, a mixer and free bowling Saturday.

Sunday's activities would include a possible concert, a movie, free bowling and free entrance into the Wonderland Ice Skating rink.

Roos said BOD external Vice-President Teplick is checking into getting specials or discounts in University Square throughout the weekend.

In response to complaints about difficulties with the showings of "All The Presidents Men," film and video committee chairperson Fred Stravropoulos said the movie was a new print and caused focus and threading problems.

He said the problem "was not the projectionist's or BOD's fault but Warner Brothers fault." He said he maybe able to get back the $500 spent on the movie and use it for "free flicks" in December. The movie took in $350.

In other news, concert committee chairperson Cris Rigia said Southside Johnny and the Asbury Jukes rock band, scheduled to appear in the gym Dec. 4 is "no go", Rigia said the band had a previous booking.

The band Walrus, featuring Beatle music will play at a movie mixer double feature scheduled for Nov. 17, according to entertainment co-chairperson Mike Machado. Mixed drinks and beer will be served.

Janice Kain, Nancy Joseph, Erin McLaughlin and Scott McDonald were sworn in as new members.

Letter to editor

Money without services

To the Editor:

I recently received a letter from the University requesting a donation for the Faculty-Staff University Drive. The letter exhorted me to contribute on the basis that such support reflected a sense of solidarity and pride in the University and would create a favorable impression upon potential investors. What kind of impression would these investors have if they were to witness the deplorable conditions in our dormitories or experience the other discourtesies which students are subjected to?

A University is more than just an institution offering a diversity of educational opportunities, it is also an oasis in which an atmosphere conducive to learning exists. The role of the University as in loco parentis has diminished, but surely, this should not imply the abdication of all responsibilities. Under the circumstances which now exist, I feel that any attempts to upgrade the University through the institution of new programs, through the improvement of instructional methods, or through the construction of new facilities will be defeated unless an equivalent amount of effort is devoted to an improvement in the University's attitude toward its students.

I will eagerly contribute to the fund drive when I see evidence of an improvement in the latter.

Published on Tuesdays and Thursdays during the school year except during exam and vacation periods by students of the University of Bridgeport. Subscription rates: $10 per academic year. Second class postage paid at Bridgeport, Conn. The Scribe is written and edited by students at 244 University Ave., Bridgeport, Conn. 06602; (203) 333-2322 or (203) 576-4382.

Over the years, several studies by reputable sociologists and governmentists said University communities and national governments often tend to possess numerous similarities. Some of the studies claimed the University of Bridgeport is roughly analogous to the government of the Soviet Union.

In order to substantiate or, hopefully, refute these findings, I traveled to the Soviet Union to learn more about the situation. Stepping off the plane, I met a Russian peasant.

The peasant was carrying a laundry bag over his shoulder.

"Excuse me," I said, "where are you going?"

"Why into the province of New Jersey. I will be safe there with my family and friends."

"How long are you going for?" I asked.

"Until Monday morning, when I must return," he answered.

"But why can't you stay here?" I asked.

"I almost stayed. I was going to hide in a nearby province where there is a pub and I could drink vodka and forget my troubles."

"Why didn't you?" I wondered.

"That would not suffice," he said. "For then, at night I would return to my shed and it would start again."

"What would start again?"

"The sounds, of course; the sounds that prey upon my mind. Those loud groaning sounds, with intermittent silence, and then the sounds again, repeating in an endless pattern, until the sirens come, forcing us out of bed, and into the cold streets."

"But what if you ignore the sounds?"

"You cannot ignore the sounds. Then, the sirens begin howling. And the constables, they come into your home at night, checking to see if you have violated the ordinance of the province."

"What if you stay?" I asked.

"You cannot," he answered. "They will fine you heavily, and possibly even banish you."

"But surely that is not enough to force you from your home," I said.

"You are right. That is not all. Czar Miles will not allow you to live outside of these filthy sheds. And he makes you eat gruel in the People's Dining Hall."

"That sound bad," I admitted.

"Oh, that is not all," he said. "Often, they make you walk long distances to get to your shed. I live in a shed close to the top of Bodine Hill."

"You mean they have no transportation?" I asked.

"Oh, they do, but it rarely works."

"Well, at least it sounds like you don't spend many rubles" I offered encouragingly.

"Oh, you are wrong," he said angrily. "They keep increasing the amount of rubles one must pay to the Czar. He tells us things are getting better all the time, while conditions worsen."

"But there must be something you can do about this," I said.

"One can support the People's Council."

"Do they do anything for you?"

"Oh, certainly they do; they write petitions. They have become quite good at writing petitions. In fact, they are known as the best petition-writers in the East. But things have begun to decay and I have heard that they have sold the people out for a good recommendation from the Czar's Palace."

"Will the people revolt?" I asked.

"Oh, no," he said. "We have gotten used to it."

RHA postpones numbers

By ANN OBUCHOWSKI

A student directory, planned for this semester will be printed at the beginning of next semester, said Ruth Corbett, president of the Residence Hall Association.

Corbett said flyers will go out to residence halls this week to determine student interest. "Basically it would be advertising the directory for next semester," Corbett said.

Jack McNamara, vice-president of RHA, gave the time element as the reason for waiting until next semester. "By the time this directory comes out," he said, "it would be second semester and we would have to put out another one because of all the room switches, withdrawals and those moving off campus. It would be a waste."

Kathy Boyle, assistant director of Residence Halls, said she needed representatives to work on the off-campus release committee. Since the deadline for submitting off-campus releases was last Friday the committee would begin work immediately, so decisions could be announced sometime this week.

Service from the Kingsman Pub began in Warner and Bodine Halls as of last month. According to Janice Kozlowski, Warner Hall director workers are needed. Anyone interested should contact the Kingsman Pub.

A report on the bi-weekly maintenance meeting was given by committee chairperson, Boyle. "It seems to be worthwhile" Boyle said. "And now everyone concerned knows the limitations of each office involved." Boyle recommended the presidents of each hall make sure students give their suggestions to their representatives.

During the meeting, Mark Duome, Schine Hall, withdrew the dorm as sponsors of the Brainstrain event. Originally the staff of Schine was supposed to sponsor the event, but Duome said because of the problem of time allowed to set up all the details, Schine would be unable to handle it, and asked if RHA would be interested in doing so.

According to Corbett, RHA is now sponsoring the event with Amy Goldfarb, Chaffee Hall president. Corbett explained that the basic idea behind Brainstrain, is each hall will be represented by a panel of four contestants with one alternate. Each panel will be asked questions ranging from sports to science. Prizes would be given to winners.

Not all the details have been worked out yet, Corbett said. Anyone interested should contact Goldfarb at RHA in Seeley Hall.

The ad that was supposed to have filled this space was to have run in conjunction with our Years Supplement — the administration's order not to run the supplement has cost us the revenue of this ad.

Tires yield child play area

By TED DROZDOWSKI

About 100 volunteers, several dozen used truck and tractor tires, a few nuts, bolts, and washers came together over the weekend to build a playground for the South End Children's Day Care Center.

Parents, University students, community volunteers and the Fairfield Rotary Club helped build a tire playground in the center's back yard at 460 Lafayette St., according to Barbara P. Jackson, the center's director.

Work began Friday when a small backhoe started digging the foundations of the geometric shapes made of tires and the children were playing there by Monday morning.

The project was taped as a training film for day care centers and other programs throughout the state, Jackson said.

Jackson said this playground was chosen because of the "safety and durability" of tires. The use of tires to construct the structures allows children to climb through and on them, so they can learn motor and other physical skills, she said.

The playground consists of a triangle-shaped swing set made of telephone poles with tire swings. There is also a tire dome, cube, circle, mountain and a grassy area, Jackson said.

Jackson said the playground is "really beautiful" and children have already been playing on it.

William Weisz of Tire Playgrounds, Inc., a South Orange, N.J. firm that uses recycled tires to build play structures, is the playground's designer.

What can you do about roommate blues?

By RANDI GERBER

You've just failed three major tests and lost your meal card for the fourth time. You're dead tired from staying up three nights to study and return to your room to sleep.

But, your roommate is having a party with the stereo blasting sounds of Led Zeppelin and three large kegs are lying in your room.

This is it. You have come to the end of your rope with him-her. You want out.

Many college students face roommate problems, but what can be done about the situation?

Maybe a student doesn't feel confident enough to talk things over with his or her roommate. One can always go to the resident advisor, provided the problem is not of major consequence.

But, if the problem gets out of hand one place to go is Bryant Hall.

Virginia Hughes of the Bryant Hall Counseling Center said "when something is bugging you and you're not quite sure which direction to go in, students should consider us."

"The center can help a student with a change of major problem, making decisions, roommate problems and dealing with your feelings and what is going on around you," Hughes said.

Students with roommate problems should speak with a counselor because any "conflicts that may interfere with feelings of academic and social success" is the Counseling Center's business.

Bodine Resident Advisor Sherri Hynd said an R.A. serves as a medium between two roommates, trying to help them straighten things out.

She said sometimes problems between two people can't be worked out without a third person present. But she added, "Most of the time, things work out."

Dancers perform Sunday

A lecture demonstration on modern dance technique and choreography will be offered by the University Dance Ensemble, the performing wing of the Dance Club, on Sunday, Nov. 13, as part of the campus open house activities.

Beginning at 2:30 p.m. in the Arnold Room of the gym, the free performance will feature Marleane Furtick Blumenthal, a dancer commissioned to choreograph a dance for the Alvin Ailey Dance Company, who will perform her self-choreographed solo "How Long Has It Been."

She will also explain the basic principals of choreography to the audience.

The demonstration portion of the program will feature Margo Knis, the University's dance instructor, on the differences and similarities of modern dance and ballet. Dance Ensemble members Kay Davis and Cindy Woodring will assist Knis in this demonstration.

Soccer season layed to rest sports

By CLIFF COADY

Although it really did not matter, Tuesday's flash flood cancelled the soccer Knights season finale against Fairleigh Dickinson. According to coach Fran Bacon, the Knights were able to remake the game today but the next open date on Fairleigh's schedule is on Nov. 18 and it is not worth the wait.

And the season's success, well, that was cancelled by an almost non-existent offense and a barrage of bad breaks. The season did prove one thing however, that God is not a Bridgeport soccer fan.

The man with all his magic apparently must really have a grudge against Bridgeport soccer. When the Knights, caught up in a tight game, needed just one break, one momentum shift, one goal, the Almighty must have ignored the calls of mercy and probably said to himself, "Here, I'll bounce it off the post for them, that ought to take the wind out of them." Seeing a once potential goal hit the post instead of the back of the net, paralyzes most soccer offenses. It's comparable to when a hitter slams a long, foul home run and strikes out on the next pitch.

"When a team is involved in seven one point games," Bacon said, "that team needs some breaks to win, and we never got any."

"Soccer is a game of momentum. If you go down the field and bounce one off the post then it has got to change the momentum. It makes the whole difference in a season."

PRESEASON OPTIMISM

While still in preseason practice, the soccer squad patiently prepared for the toughest schedule ever seen in a Bridgeport press guide. But they met the challenge with perpetual preseason optimism. "Just looking up and down the squad," Eric Swallow once said, "you can see that we have an excellent balance of talent and a great attitude that is needed in becoming New England champs...."

Two games and two losses into the season, the soccer Knights were undaunted at their winless record. And why not? Losing 2-0 and 3-2 to SIU and UConn was no disgrace. But when it took the Knights overtime to dispose of a relatively weak Bate's squad and when UMass stopped at Kennedy Stadium and proceeded to slam a torrential downpour of goals past Swallow, it became obviously evident the Knights were not the New England power their preseason hopes had hoped. "....yes, a losing season is very much a possibility," Bacon said after the UMass disaster.

STILL HOPING...

At the season's midpoint, two wins and six losses, the Knights looked deep into themselves and still found optimism. "We have ten games left," Bacon said at the time, "and if we win all of them people will stand up and take notice." The team still believed there was a place for them in the post season NCAA tournament.

Then the Knights began to pick up speed. They won four of five, the climax: a 7-0 trounce over hapless New York University.

Then, upon the schedule, glared the biggest game of a season that had too many big games. Vermont, one of New England's powerful squads was the make it or break it; do or die point of the season. If they won, then the Knights would surely complete the needed sweep and at least be considered for post season play. But when the Knight's offense caught its usual case of stage fright, Vermont nipped them 2-0.

HOPES SLIPPING

The Knights still had some season salvaging hopes. If they won the remaining three games Bacon said, then they would finish at 9-8 and could slide into to the ECAC tournament. But two more shutouts (Southern Conn. and Springfield) put out the light, slammed the door, and put the season to rest.

Sure it's easy to put the blame on God or on an offense that scored only 22 points (and that includes the seven against NYU) and was shutout four times. Or on the bad timing of the injuries to Swallow and Manny Barral, at a time when the Knights were making a drive into full gear. Or on the lack of student and administrative support. Or on the schedule or on anything else. But, of one thing that's for certain, there is always next year....

Terry Downs Younger of UB brother Combo

By CATHY ROZNOWSKI

The University of Bridgeport soccer team has many talented men in their starting line-up. A fine example is Terry Downs who hails from Bricktown, N.J. Along with his brother Donny, he makes up one of the few starting brother combinations in the league.

Terry had an outstanding high school career having earned All-American honors. He was a two-time All-State and a four-time All-League choice.

Terry, who played fullback in high school, has been converted to a halfback-midfield. "At the college level he was best suited to play midfield because of his ball control and his ability to set up other players. This talent would tend to be wasted at the fullback spot," began Coach Fran Bacon.

The brother combination of Donny and Terry goes back a few years. "When I was a sophomore on varsity, Donny was a senior. We played together then," Terry explained.

"Donny was an influence on my coming here. He was ... just because he was here. He talked me into it," continued Downs.

They also get along off the field. "We get along pretty good. It seems to be all right," Terry said. "We party together once in a while."

Donny and Terry work together well on the field. There is a possibility of getting a third Downs brother next year. He is Darren Downs and plays fullback.

Terry started to play soccer at the age of seven. He feels his strong point is his size. "I have a pretty good tackling ability, but I have a lot of things I would like to work on before I get out of here," Terry stated. "I would like to work on ball skills, passing—the basic part of the game."

According to Bacon, "Terry's strong points are his ball control, his passing ability and finding open players. He also has a good shot. From midfield, if he can get the ball inside the twenty-eight yardline, he can score."

Terry's outlook for next year is optimistic. "They will do a lot better than this year. This year we had a great number of players that never had experience at all. Next year we will still be a young team, but I know we can do better than this year."

A winning season...

By Louise

Pavelchek

The fall sports are drawing to a close, and in the lull before the winter season begins, it behooves us to look back upon what has happened on the field hockey field.

A young team, turned in a very creditable record, finishing at 6-3-4.

According to Coach Barbara Dunstan, "The team did very well considering how young they are. The freshmen came on very well in the end of the season."

There will be only one loss to graduation this year, goalie Rosie Weisse.

Her shoes will be hard to fill as she turned in an excellent performance in the goal this year and was selected for the first New England All-College team.

Returning to the team next year, however, will be co-captain Tony Rinaldi, along with a very talented string of underclassmen: Brenda Frey, Leslie Costa, Melissa Marshall and Marlana Hassler. Marlana was selected for the New England All-College third team.

Looking forward to next year, Dunstan is hoping to improve on this year's record.

"In the beginning, they had to learn a lot. Many of the girls were making the transition from high school to college ball. Next year should be a lot easier as they will all know what to expect."

...and from the gym

VOLLEYBALL

The women's volleyball team will host Eastern Conn. State College tonight in the gym at 6:30. The squad will also play tomorrow in the gym, against a newly formed men's team at 5 p.m. in a winner-take-all, best two-out-of-three match. Some reserved seats are still available.

WOMEN'S INTRAMURALS

On the night of Nov. 21, from 7 to 9 p.m., in the gym, there will be a series of women's intramural events; including volleyball, basketball, turkey shoot and badminton. If interested, contact Vicki (3451) or Robin (2086).

SECRETARY NEEDED

Interested in making some big bucks? There is a dire need for a secretary in the Scribe's sports office. Must be able to type (no speed requirement) and file (ditto) on Sunday afternoons and Tuesday evenings for a total of 3-5 hours weekly. Salary? $7.50. Still interested? Then call either 2143 or 4382 and ask for Cliff. Thanks.
